Reception at our house?

65 people in two reception rooms and hopefully the garden (whether permitting) I'm looking at the rooms and thinking it will be nice and comfy, but I'm wondering how much room 65 people take up. Anyone done this before?

The house may be large enough, but do you have enough in the way of toilet facilities and room to store drinks and food?

Yes, we have decided not to do it, too much fuss I think, and a very good point about toilets. just going for a small venue instead.
