

The average wedding cost is expected to be around £16,164 in 2013. We are finding that the 2013 Bride has become more savvy in her spending. This is possibly due to the current economic climate, ease of sourcing and comparing prices and the general trend in less extravagant weddings.

Wedding expectations are subjective to each individual couple and some will put more importance on certain aspects of the wedding than others. There is no minimum spend amount to make your day beautiful in your own style. We list below a breakdown of how those average prices are broken down to keep you on track for your budget and demonstrate which areas you could save on. For those on a budget, do read our money saving articles Be nifty, Get thrifty and Money saving tips

Stationery	£320.00
Stag & Hen nights	£318.00
Insurance	£122.00
The Service	£520.00
Wedding Rings	£640.00
Flowers	£680.00
Reception Decor	£500.00
The Brides outfit	£1,300.00
Hair & Beauty	£195.00
The Grooms outfit	£180.00
Attendants outfits	£360.00
Transport	£290.00
Photography	£1,080.00
Videography	£875.00
Venue, including food & drinks	£4,600.00
Entertainment	£560.00
Wedding Cake	£290.00
Gifts	£134.00
Honeymoon & first night Hotel	£3,200.00
Total	£16,164.00