

The average wedding cost is expected to be around £20,248.00 in 2012. In 2011 we found that the average bride was being savvy about her spending habits. In 2012 we are finding that the Bride has actually increased her spending in certain areas that she feels important and that certain services have had to cut price in order to keep with todays economy and bridal expectations

Wedding expectations are subjective to each individual couple and some will put more importance on certain aspects of the wedding than others. There is no minimum spend amount to make your day beautiful in your own style. We list below a breakdown of how those average prices are broken down to keep you on track for your budget and demonstrate which areas you could save on. For those on a budget, do read our money saving articles Be nifty, Get thrifty and Money saving tips

Stationery	£600.00
Stag & Hen nights	£385.00
Wedding Insurance	£108.00
The Service	£640.00
Wedding rings	£720.00
Flowers	£890.00
Reception Decor	£620.00
The Brides outfit	£1500.00
Hair and Beauty	£190.00
The Grooms outfit	£205.00
Attendants outfits	£450.00
Transport	£590.00
Videography	£980.00
Reception (Venue, food & drinks	£4800.00
Entertainment	£840.00
Wedding cake	£580.00
Gifts	£230.00
Photography	£1080.00
Tiaras & accessories	£180.00
Honeymoon & First night Hotel	£4300.00
Wedding Planner (this cost may reduce the above costs)	£360.00
Total	£20,248.00